VIOLATING THE LAW

No part of President Hoover's inaugural address created a deeper or more lasting impression than the one which touched upon law enforcement and law observance. President Hoover realizes that our present wave of lawlessness goes further back than the time of the Eighteenth amendment, although of course violation of the prohibition laws now constitute a goodly part of our lax law observance. The delay in the functioning of the machinery of justice has a great deal to do with the failure of law enforcement today.

"But it has become popular now to blame everything which does not suit us, either directly or indirectly onto the Volstead act," President Hoover wisely said:

"But a large responsibility rests directly upon our citizens. There would be little traffic in illegal liquor if only criminals patronized it. We must awake to the fact that this patronage from large numbers of law abiding citizens is supplying the rewards and stimulating crime.

"I have been selected by you to execute and enforce the laws of the country. I propose to do so to the extent of my own abilities but the measure of success that the government shall attain will depend upon the moral support which you as citizens extend.

"The duty of citizens to support the law of the land is co-equal with the duty of their government to enforce the laws which exist. No greater national service can be given by men and women of good-will—who I know are not unmindful of the responsibilities of good citizenship—than that they should by their example assist in stamping out crime and outlawry by refusing participation in and condemning all transactions with illegal liquor.

"Our whole system of self-government will fall either if officials elect what laws they will enforce or citizens elect which laws they will support. The worst evil of disregard for some law is that it destroys respect for all law. For our citizens to patronize the violation of a particular law on the ground that they are opposed to it is destructive of the very basis of all that protection of life, of homes and property which they rightly claim under other laws.

"If citizens do not like a law their duty as honest men and women is to discourage its violation; their right is openly to work for its repeal.

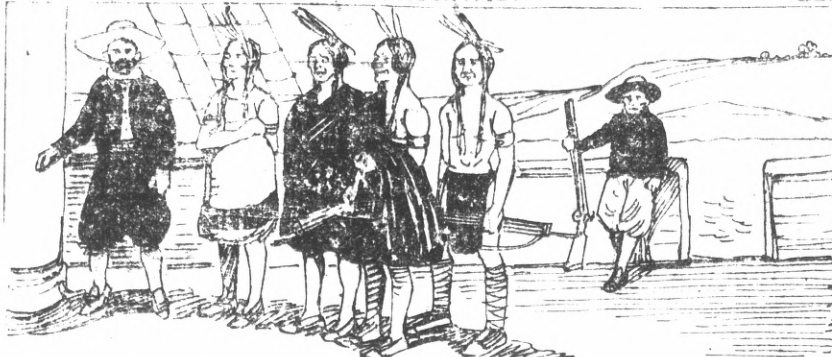

There is little fault to find with the logic of the above statements of the new president. Not all of our people by any means are in favor of the Eighteenth amendment. But all good citizens regardless of their views on prohibition are supposed to stand for law enforcement. The man who denounces the prohibition laws because they are so often violated is certainly inconsistent if he at the same time participates in this violation. To hold up one's hands in holy horror at the bootlegger and then patronize that unscrupulous gentleman to the extent of eight or ten dollars a quart for illegal poison is inconsistent to say the least.

If law violation is general and is so terrible as most of us think it is, then it is our duty certainly to discourage further violation by not patronizing the bootlegger ourselves.

As President Hoover says, any good citizen has the right to work openly for the repeal of any law of which he disapproves, but he certainly has not the right as a good American to attempt to break down the law by helping to violate it. Such procedure only adds to general public demoralization and is certainly against the public policy.

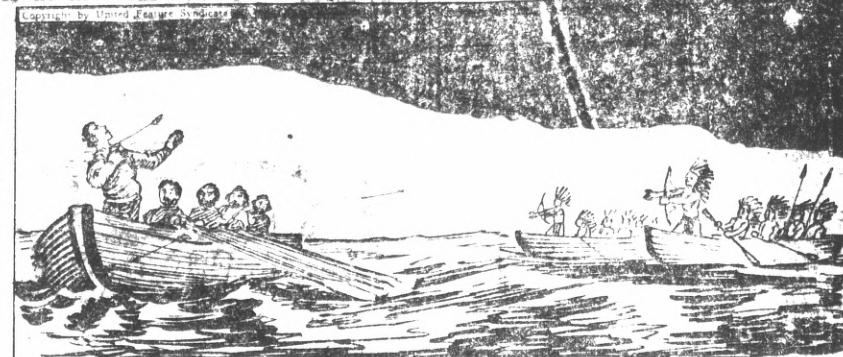

Newspapers in Washington, our national capital, for two weeks have been devoting most of their front pages to love letters alleged to have been written by a police captain to a palmist. Sometimes we wonder whether as a nation we are as intelligent as we think we are.

of call has a bearing it was said on Richmond's fight to secure a rail route to Portland comparable with the route accorded other San Francisco bay cities. # CAMPAIGN AIDS CITIZENSHIP OF STATE

California has jumped from thirty second to eleventh place among the states in the Union in 1924 and 1928 general elections.

This statement was made in a bulletin issued today by the California Development association, showing a voting percentage for California of 79.7 percent.

The bulletin, which is issued to the membership of the association, tells the following story of how California's citizenship standing was raised.

"California ranked thirty second in voting percentage among the states of the nation in the general election of 1924. The California Development association undertook the work of correcting this relative deficiency in citizenship.

Campaign organized

"To develop a higher degree of citizenship in California the association organized a campaign to get out a greater vote in the general election of 1924 and to stimulate statewide interest, offered a cup for the community of the state securing the highest voting percentage. Complete organization of the movement was accomplished through tying in local communities, chambers of commerce, civic groups and women's organizations to a coordinated program.

"Each local committee undertook a definite campaign to get the voters to the polls. The citizenship cup was closely contested and was won that year by Ramona, in San Diego county, with a voting percentage of 89.3.

"This first statewide program resulted in raising California's voting percentage 73 percent in 1924, as well as raising her position from thirty second to twenty first place.

Permanent Plan

"These favorable results led to the establishment of a permanent better citizenship activity as a part of the work of the association and during the last three general elections has resulted in raising the voting percentage of California to 79.7 percent in 1928, as compared with the previous average of 65.7 during 1920 to 1924.

"The spirit of this movement is well reflected in the activity of the city of Ramona in winning permanent possession of the association's cup through victory in three successive 'get-out-the-vote' contests, which has been attended by Ramona establishing, according to known data, a national record in 1928, with a voting percentage of 98.6 percent.

"In addition to these campaigns to improve citizenship standards the association's better citizenship committee is undertaking a long time study of the problems of better citizenship in its entire scope. To this work are being brought to bear the joint study and citizenship conceptions of civic experts in the realization that national leadership in citizenship means sound government of our state community.

Western States Will Plan Big Organization

SACRAMENTO, April 3. A permanent organization devoted to the development of the Rocky Mountain region and Pacific coast states may result from the Western States exposition to be held in connection with California's diamond jubilee state fair next September.

Suggestion for such an organization was made by L. L. Newton, executive manager of the department of commerce and industry of Wyoming, in a letter to the California State Agricultural society.

Newton suggested that during the exposition a conference of representatives of the eleven western states be held to take steps for a development plan from which the entire region would benefit.

"Our programs for development often fail," Newton declared, "because we are not effectively organized in the west. The Rocky Mountain and Pacific coast states need to know each other's problems more intimately."

Directors of the California Agricultural society expressed themselves in hearty accord with Newton's suggestion, and it is expected a committee will be appointed to make arrangements for the conference.

P. G. E. WILL START WORK ON PLANT

Moving the side of a granite mountain in the upper stretches of the Mokelumne river is on the program of Pacific Gas and Electric company engineers for the early part of April as one of the steps in the construction of the Salt Springs dam, the basic unit of the company's $25,000,000 Mokelumne river hydroelectric development. Crews are now busy day and night drilling the necessary holes for firing a "shot" of approximately 25 tons of dynamite, which will blast away a section of the cliff about 100 feet long, 120 feet high and 15 feet thick. By the force of the explosion this whole granite mass will be "shattered" out from the mountain for a distance of at least 25 feet. The "shot" will loosen up about 150,000 cubic yards of rock to be used in building the dam.

For the last 15 perpendicular shafts six inches in diameter are drilled to an average depth of 125 feet and at the level of the bottom of these will be a circular number of horizontal holes three inches in diameter. All will be packed with dynamite. The entire charge will then be touched off electrically.

The Salt Springs structure, it is said, 50 miles east of Jackson will be the greatest rock-filled dam in the world, containing approximately 3,000,000 cubic yards of granite, the cubic content of Chicago, Egypt's Great pyramid, it will be 278 feet high, 1200 feet long at the crest and 500 feet through at the base.

Although completion of the project has been set for the middle of 1931, the dam already has taken definite form. A concrete cut-off wall, 250 feet long, 15 feet deep and 6 feet thick has been built into bedrock at the base of the structure, 4 feet below the river bed, to prevent seepage. This cut-off wall will be continued in each end of the dam, tying it into the granite reefs on both the Calaveras and Anaduro sides of the canyon.

The upstream surface of the dam will have a water-tight face of concrete, grading in to the bottom to a foot and a half at the crest, and based on a layer of derrick placed granite 15 feet thick. The structure will form a reservoir six miles long and with a capacity of 130,000 acre feet.

Another completed unit is a 120 foot tunnel, 19 feet in diameter, through which the river is diverted during construction operation, but which, on completion of the project, will feed into a power house at the downstream base of the dam.

Sharing in the development of 32,500 horse-power of electricity at this plant will be water carried through a two and a half mile tunnel and 4500 feet of pipeline from a new reservoir on Bear river, north of the Mokelumne. Water entering the power house from the reservoir back of the Salt Springs dam will drop about 300 feet, while the water from the Bear river reservoir will drop from the mountain top through steel pipe approximately 2,000 feet.

From this generating unit the water will flow through 20 miles of concrete canal to Tiger creek, where it will again be dropped down 1200 feet into a power house with a capacity of 80,000 horse-power. Then through another 22 miles of canal to augment the output of the Electric plant, 11 miles east of Jackson, after which it will return to the regular course of the Mokelumne.

RUM 'FRAMEUP' PLOT TOLD BY SUSPECT

MARTINEZ, April 3. The "easy money" scheme of John Napolitano, 31, 888 Forge-third street, Oakland, suddenly burst when he was arrested in Albany last night charged with being the author of an extortion letter written to A. Martignoni, Vine Hill rancher.

Napolitano, now in the county jail facing a felony complaint sworn to by Martignoni, today made a complete confession, according to Deputy Sheriff Ralph Harrison. He admitted his efforts to force Martignoni to pay him $500 under threat of exposing the Vine Hill rancher to federal prohibition agents.

Martignoni, on March 26, received a letter signed by "B. R. Rossi" threatening him under pain of being "knocked over" by prohibition agents unless he enclosed the money in an enclosed envelope addressed "General Delivery, Albany."

Albany has only an accommodation stamp window, the nearest postoffice being on University avenue, Berkeley.

Martignoni, the rancher, soon after he received the threatening letter, communicated with the sheriff's office. It was then decided to send a deputy sheriff to the Berkeley postoffice to watch for the sender of the letter.

When Napolitano went to the window of the Berkeley post office and asked for a letter for "Rossi" he was placed under arrest by Deputy Sheriff Joseph Gomez, Jr.

The man when arrested steadfastly denied any knowledge of the extortion letter, but following a questioning in the county jail, finally admitted all, according to the authorities.

Richmond business men are lending an interested ear to the story of the chamber of commerce accomplishments, and indications point to success in the membership drive now under way. It was announced yesterday by Ralph H. Bergen, chairman of the general committee in charge of the campaign.

Team workers are calling attention to the fact that the chamber is in a strong position at present as regards finances and membership, but that the outlook for the immediate future is so filled with promising developments that it is desired to extend the influence of the body in order to prepare it to cope with any problems that may arise, no matter how large.

The membership drive is to continue aggressively for at least a week, and is to be succeeded by a permanent follow-up plan to bring in new members as rapidly as new business men locate here.

4 CANNERIES CLOSED BY VERDICT

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—With four large sardine canneries operating at Monterey closed under abatement by a recent decision of Judge J. R. Welch, judge of the Superior Court of Santa Clara county, as a result of action brought by the Division of Fish and Game, the long bitter fight for the conservation of food fish appears to have a much brighter chance of success.

After a hard fought legal battle in the Superior court of Monterey county with Judge Welch sitting in place of Judge H. G. Jorgensen, the Santa Clara judge's decision favoring on practically all points the stand for conservation of the sardines as a valuable natural resource has been hailed as a signal victory by the division.

Despite the fact that R. D. Marx, Greening, former executive officer for the fish and game division, represented the canneries, and the introduction of testimony of numerous operators of canneries throughout the state to the effect that the reduction law and regulations was not fair to the canneries, Eugene D. Bennett, present executive officer and attorney for the division, was able to present a case so conclusive that the decision leaves little to be desired, giving as it does the relief sought and establishing important facts regarding reduction of food fish and authority of the division to regulate canneries.

4 Canneries Closed

The Monterey Canning company, San Carlos Canning company, Sea Pride Canning company and the Carmel Canning company, all large Monterey operators, are the plants closed on March 15, by Judge Welch's decision.

This decision counteracts that recently rendered in Los Angeles by Judge Clair Tappan, who declared that reduction of 13.7 tons of sardines per can closing machine should be allowed for each calendar month.

This verdict would have allowed canners to many times take more sardines for canning than were brought into the plants, and was regarded as a tremendous excess by the fish and game officials who have held that twenty-five per cent of fish brought in should be a liberal allowance.

The division declared that after a careful investigation this percentage should be determined by insisting that the canners pack at least fifteen cases of sardines for each ton of fish brought into their plants.

Figures Given

Judge Welch went into the evidence carefully and in his decision he explained that evidence presented show the Fish and Game commission was vested with a certain protective rights, and that the commission had dealt fairly with the canners not only in previous years but during the period when the defendants were charged with using in excess of the twenty-five percent of sardines in reduction plants and also failing to pack the fifteen cases per ton required by the commission's order.

He pointed out that the fifteen cases represented but 650 pounds of fish and that should allow a very liberal quantity for reduction purposes. His figures show why the commission was right in asking for an abatement of the four defendant's plants for violation of these orders.

"Judge Welch's decision closing the four Monterey canneries because of their excessive reduction of food fish is greatly appreciated and it is a long step forward in the campaign of this

WISCONSIN 7TH STATE TO GO 'WET'

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(U.P.) The anti-prohibition victory in the Wisconsin referendum election is the seventh of the sort in the last three years. Drys meanwhile have won three referendums and throttled wet proposals for similar referendums in other states.

Wisconsin and Montana have each voted wet twice in the period. Drys found success only in the fact that the victory of the repeal proposal was only by about 10,000, whereas a modification suggestion was adopted by the voters of Wisconsin three years ago by a majority of 171,841.

Montana Repeal
Montana two years ago repealed its state enforcement act, and last year adopted a proposal to repeal it. Wet victories were also in New York, Nevada, Illinois, and Massachusetts.

California, Missouri and North Dakota have voted for prohibition in recent elections.

If the Wisconsin legislature follows the vote and repeals the Severyn state enforcement code, the state will be the fifth with out local enforcement. Maryland never adopted an enforcement act and New York, Montana and Nevada repealed theirs.

Withdrawal of Power
Whether the state actually has the power to withdraw its support of the Eighteenth amendment is a question often raised by prohibitionists. The supreme court in a famous prohibition decision ruled that a state has not the power to "thwart or defeat" the purpose of the amendment.

William Gibbs McAdoo in a famous speech argued that repeal of an enforcement code was really an attempt to thwart or defeat the federal amendment, and hence unconstitutional, although he expressed doubt that the courts could act to compel a state legislature not to repeal the law.

Adams also expressed an opinion that it would be unconstitutional for congress to repeal the Volstead or other enforcement act.

Two Recent Attempts
Two current attempts to strike at prohibition by state action are reported. One is in Massachusetts, where the State Constitutional Liberty League is promoting efforts for another state referendum, probably on the question of repealing the state act.

The other is in Rhode Island where a bill is being considered by the legislature to direct state officials to institute a suit in the supreme court here, contesting the legality of the Eighteenth amendment on the grounds the constitution requires that such a proposal as this be adopted by a vote of state constitutional conventions. The Eighteenth amendment was adopted by votes of legislatures.

MARRIAGE LICENSES
An application for a marriage license was made in Martinez yesterday by Frank G. DeSerra, 22, 2737 E. 10th avenue, Richmond, and Mabel G. Scarborough, 25, 219 Sixteenth street, Richmond.

Another was filed by David L. Williams, 20, and Irene B. R. track, 17, both of Richmond.

Key Line Loses Four Million Riders In Year

Over four million less passengers during the year 1928 as compared with 1927. That's the startling decrease in patronage on the Key System street cars and trolley lines, states A. J. Lundberg, president of the Key System Transit company, in his annual report just made public.

"During 1928 the revenue passengers on the street car division amounted to 6,933,151, which is a decrease of 2,398,298 passengers as compared with the year 1927," Lundberg says. "The total number of revenue and free transfer passengers carried on the street car division was 8,423,896 representing a decrease of 2,599,485 passengers as compared with 1927."

"The trolley division carried 15,847,191 passengers during 1928," Lundberg says. "This represents a decrease of 117,771 passengers. The total revenue and free transfer passengers carried by the entire system was 19,070,047 during the year 1928 as against 19,469,342 during the year 1927, which is a reduction of 428,295 passengers."

PROBE INTO DRY SLAYING TO BE CONTINUED

ELGIN, Ill., April 3.—(U.P.) Forces of law and legislation renewed the movement today to keep "wide open" the investigation into the slaying of Mrs. Lillian De King who was shot down by a deputy sheriff during a dry raid on her home near Aurora.

The deputy, Roy Smith, who was wounded by a revolver bullet fired by Mrs. De King's son, Gerald, 12, was served with a coroner's warrant today charging manslaughter in compliance with the verdict of a jury in the inquest held at Geneva yesterday.

The warrant, prepared by Coroner Herman J. Vierke, was served on the deputy in a hospital here.

At the same time, Representative John P. Pettit of Batavia (Kane county) introduced a resolution in the Illinois assembly at Springfield demanding a legislative investigation of the De King killing and also the collection and expenditure of money by the Anti-Saloon league for the enforcement of the Illinois prohibition act.

State's Attorney George D. Carberry, who had been criticized for alleged "covering up" of evidence in the investigation told the United Press that he was glad the recommendation of the jury would cause a grand jury action.

"I learned for the first time at the inquest," the prosecutor said, "that investigators were being hired in the southern part of the county on a fee basis instead of salaries. I have ordered this stopped immediately."

"The coroner's verdict will take the entire matter into the court where it belongs. If indictments are returned, those accused will be tried under the rules of law."

A warrant charging perjury was issued today for the arrest of E. B. Fairchild, the investigator who swore he had purchased "moonshine" from the De King home.

REBELS LOSE IN ATTACK ON NACO

NACO, Sonora, Mexico, April 3.—(U.P.)—Rebels were repulsed, apparently with heavy losses, when they made their first ground attack on the federal garrison in Naco today.

After two hours of bitter fighting in which federal's poured a steady stream of machine gun and rifle bullets from their entrenchments, insurgent cavalry retired to a point outside firing range.

The rebels were within a few hundred yards of the federal lines, which surround Naco on three sides, when they were forced to yield before the intense rifle fire.

Many Fall
There were approximately 1000 men, mostly Yaqui and Mayo Indians in the attacking party. Many men and horses were seen to fall as they moved steadily over the plains to the southeast and southwest of the city.

There was no check of the rebel dead. Federal casualties also were unchecked, but were believed to be low.

Federal officers believed that the rebels had retired to reorganize for a second attack.

The United Press correspondent observed the battle from a house top within the city.

Planes Bomb City
The attack was preceded by the visit of two rebel planes, which dropped bombs over the city. No damage was reported.

Almost immediately two columns of cavalry moved toward Naco. The rebels advanced steadily, stopping at times to fire volleys at federal airplanes which layed the air in an effort to drive them back.

Federal outposts retired as the advancing rebels moved in from three sides. At 1200 yards the insurgents fired a terrible storm of machine gun and rifle lead which finally forced them to give way.

35 Prisoners Taken
Federal's brought in about 35 prisoners, all Yaqui Indians from the force of Gen. Ramon Yocipio, who combined with Gen. Piuso Topete for the assault on Naco.

Numerous spectators watched the battle from Naco, Ariz. No bullets fell on the American side of the line. Rebel bombers with poor aim dropped explosives in Arizona Tuesday, causing slight injury to one man.

On the chance that rebels would renew the attack, detachments of United States troops were moved to the center of Naco, Ariz., by Maj. Charles Hazeltine, commanding. The force, composed of cavalry and infantry, patrolled the boundary and set up machine guns.

Two Contracts For S. P. Span Filed In Conty
MARTINEZ, April 3.—Two contracts, calling for the expenditure of more than $4,125,000 for the Southern Pacific railroad bridge from Martinez to Army Point, were filed with the county recorder here today.

The larger of the two contracts is that of Siens, Helmers and Shaffner Co., for the foundation piers, aggregating over $4,000,000. A bond of $1,968,300 was posted.

The other is for the George Pollock company's grading contract totalling nearly a quarter of a million dollars for which a bond of $144,550 was filed.

First consignment of grading equipment for the work is due here tomorrow.

2000 MEXICAN REBELS DIE IN BATTLE

burned several bridges between Reforma and Diaz on the north line. The rebel trains halted every few miles to repair bridges and the federal's had every hope of catching up to them.

6000 Rebels
Almazan estimated that the rebel force entrenched at Jiminez before the river, comprised 6000 men, holding strong positions. The federal advance, therefore, was cautious, the attack being confined to long-range fighting until the rebels under the personal direction of Escobar and Caraveo took the offensive by attempting to outflank the federal's with cavalry, attacking in full force. The federal's met the attack and Almazan said it was a complete rout.

Almazan added that 200 federal cavalry commanded by Jesus Garcia and Benigno Sierra, defeated the retreating rebel rear guard last night, although the federal's were outnumbered. Sierra took 106 prisoners, including Gen. Federico Barbera and several colonels.

Federal Losses Small
The federal losses at Jiminez were "comparatively few," Almazan reported, adding that a check was being taken to determine the casualties. Most of the federal damage on the rebels was inflicted by the cavalry, he added, and the federal infantry was little affected.

Calles announced at 11:40 a. m. that he expected the rebel cavalry to be destroyed entirely. Early in the afternoon a message from Calles said the rebel trains had halted at Reforma station, 12 miles north of Jiminez, because of destroyed bridges ahead of them. Federal aviators continued to bomb the rebels and were bringing up field artillery to the attack.

It was announced that the main body of west coast insurgents, was encamped last night at Culiacan, with a small rear guard at Quila. The federal cavalry under Gen. Lazaro Cardenas was advancing from Elota.

REBELS DENY JIMINEZ DEFEAT

HOOVER BUSY DURING FIRST MONTH AS PRESIDENT OF U.S.

er has been laid up as a result of a cold and the White House horses have been put on a business basis with three presidential secretaries, and a telephone has been installed on the president's desk as a time saver.

Time Saved
Time saving recreation has been abolished and the president has introduced the medicine ball to intimate friends who gather behind the White House every morning for a brisk workout.

Handshakers have been cut to the minimum to conserve the president's time.

The president has decided to forego making many addresses such as those to the Red Cross and the Daughters of the American Revolution which his predecessors regarded as obligatory.

He has directed that his military and naval aides should have desks at the White House and do something besides drink tea and entertain Mrs. Hoover's lady guests.

Secrecy Abolished
Much of the secrecy around the White House press conference has been abolished and the president has become the first of modern presidents to talk for quotation to the press.

All of which has been possible because Hoover came to the presidency thoroughly trained for his job, having been a member of the president's cabinet for eight years.

So far as his own direct actions are concerned, Hoover has made a decidedly favorable impression on Washington. There has been some criticism of his oil conservation order and some minor inevitable complaints.

Wisconsin Wets In Victory At State Election

avalanche of votes declaring against state liquor restrictions. With the referendum victory accomplished, however, the wets realized that before they can forget state prohibition enforcement they must obtain repeal of the law in the legislature.

In Milwaukee, formerly the famous city of brewers, the voters were five to one in favor of both the proposal to repeal the state prohibition laws and to legalize 275 per cent beer.

Drys Plan Fight
Meanwhile state dry leaders who conceded the election as a "great disappointment" prepared to do further battle for the dry cause in the legislature, where the repeal measure will be decided finally.

In the rural sections, where the drys had anticipated their support in the referendum, a tight vote was recorded because of storms and it served barely to check the onslaught made by city dwellers on the state liquor statutes.

The rural sections increased their dry vote over that registered in the 1926 beer referendum but the cities piled up heavy wet majorities.

First Jones Test
The referendum was the first prohibition test since passage of the new Jones law. The vote showed Wisconsin's intention to align with New York, Nevada, Montana, Illinois and Massachusetts as states which have repealed or never have had state prohibition laws.

Wisconsin wet leaders regarded their victory as an important step toward removing the Eighteenth amendment from the constitution of the United States. They said they would continue their fight in this manner taking state by state as did the prohibition forces in bringing the dry issue before congress.
